UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT METRICS

The goal of the University of Connecticut is to be among the best public universities in the United States. UConn has made significant advances in recent years in its national rankings; it continues to be acknowledged as the best public university in New England and is among the top 26 in the nation according to U.S. News & World Report. A selected set of metrics were developed in 2004 to focus our institutional review efforts and to compare ourselves to nationally recognized public research universities. These metrics allow us to evaluate our progress longitudinally and to compare how we are doing vis-à-vis institutions like those we aspire to be. The performance measures are included in institutional and academic planning.

The metrics were established with a number of rankings of institutions that exist at the national level. These include U.S. News & World Report (especially undergraduate, but also selected graduate programs), National Research Council (for research programs), and The Center for Measuring University Performance. Each of these rankings has certain limitations. Some national sources of rankings include UConn's Health Center as well as its Regional Campuses; other sources are restricted to the Storrs Campus. One-fourth of the U.S. News & World Report rating is based on a qualitative "perception" of the institution by the leaders of other institutions. At present the NRC does not rank all graduate programs and produces its rankings only once a decade. The rankings by The Center are skewed in favor of larger institutions. These issues need to be considered when comparing institutions of varying size; especially given that in terms of size, the University of Connecticut is one of the smaller Carnegie Research Universities with Very High Research Activity. While the well-known rankings continue to be useful, especially in comparisons to other research universities, we are in the process of developing an expanded set of metrics that recognizes, encourages and rewards performance in various areas of productivity and is responsive to the University's new Academic Plan.

Our current peer group of institutions includes Georgia, Iowa, Iowa State, Ohio State, Purdue, Minnesota, Missouri, and Rutgers. We believe that these institutions define a standard of excellence and quality that UConn can attain by focusing its efforts in areas that enhance scholarly productivity and educational programs for its undergraduate, graduate and professional students.

The metrics are grouped into five categories. These include:

- Undergraduate Education
- Research & Graduate/Professional Education
- > Diversity
- Resources
- National Reputation

To the extent the data becomes available, the metrics will be available for each school and college and each regional campus within the University. Further details within the major units also are being generated for academic planning and decision-making.

361	Tenth-day census (fall and spring semesters combined) of student credit hours generated from courses taught by the School. Base for ratio: full-time faculty in or affiliated with academic unit. Metric added for UConn academic units.
11	Ratio submitted to ABA used here for consistency with prior years. This ratio excludes Law students spending a semester abroad, excludes all LL.M. students, excludes exchange students visiting here from other countries, and counts evening program students according to fractional (2/3) formula. Counting all such students the ratio would be roughly 14.5 to 1.

158/162	Law School compilation of Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) information for each Fall's entering class.
20%	The ABA reported number does not reflect all of the racially diverse students attending UConn Law. Specifically, students who are bi-racial or who feel that their identity does not fit into a single box often check the racial category of "Other." As the ABA does not include "Other" as a racial category in their calculations, Law diversity as reported to the ABA understates the total minority percentages.
